

ABSTRACT

A method and means for improved information and decorative communication function of floor or other surface covering materials, such as door or floor covering 5 mats, by the coordination of information or design appearing on the covering materials that can be placed on both sides of a door or passageway.